Supreme Software Offers Wolters Kluwer Financial Services' Retail Sales Installment Contracts to Auto, RV and Marine Dealerships

MINNEAPOLIS - May 11, 2009 - Wolters Kluwer Financial Services announced today that its electronic retail sales installment contracts and documents will be integrated with Supreme Software's finance and insurance (F&I) system (The Dealership Tracker) for auto, RV and marine dealerships.

Wolters Kluwer Financial Services' contracts, which are used to originate financing of new or used automobiles, RVs and boats, are maintained by the company's legal and compliance experts who monitor legislative and regulatory changes affecting the indirect finance industry in all 51 U.S. jurisdictions. Under the new agreement, Supreme Software can provide its 1,200 dealer customers with access to these contracts.

"Our goal is to help dealers calculate finance transactions and access all of the documents they need to serve their customers and close more sales," said Terry Adelman, CEO, at Supreme Software. "Wolters Kluwer Financial Services provides a critical component by helping ensure the financial terms for each sale are documented accurately. This will also be a huge deal to all the RV and marine dealers that were with Curomax. Our agreement with Wolters Kluwer will now enable those dealers to use our system to print plain paper contracts like they did with Curomax plus have many additional options including direct integration with the new Curomax called DealerTrack."

"Supreme Software offers yet another venue where dealers from various lines of business can access Wolters Kluwer Financial Services' compliant content," said Kevin Kopp, senior director and general manager of Indirect Lending for Wolters Kluwer Financial Services. "Our contracts help ease the burden of compliance at the dealership level, which allows dealers to focus on their sales business."

Available in preprinted and electronic format, the retail sales installment contracts are protected by Wolters Kluwer Financial Services' compliance warranty. Supreme Software has a library of over 10,000 different contracts and forms available for use within the system. Countless dealerships have already benefited from deploying The Dealership Tracker F&I and menu selling system. In doing so they've increased
